A Humble Message of Appreciation – NPPC Vision Document 2040

Foremost, I would like to express my profound gratitude to our National Plant Protection Program Manager - M'dam Yeshey Dema for entrusting me with the task of drafting the Vision Document for the National Plant Protection Program. It has been a privilege and honor for me – a real Big Deal for me! I have learned a great deal through this experience. So, "Thank You" to you Madam.

While I have most boldly agreed on the task, it was not without trepidation that I have agreed on the assignment. This task was made much easier and purposeful with the guidance, comments, feedbacks and often with critical remarks that resulted in sudden breaking of cold sweats down my spine – which reflecting back was required for getting the perspective that this document is able to achieve. I cherish all these experiences and I am deeply grateful to all our friends, to our senior friends, for your full-hearted support in drafting this document.

With the support and guidance of our senior friends, I have tried my best to give the very best I could. But I am acutely aware that there will be glaring shortcomings. I take full responsibility of the gaps and obvious mistakes that I might have committed. My earnest request to all our friends at NPPC and anyone who comes across this document in future to kindly share your views and comments for betterment of this document through the NPPC contact address.

From the experience of over 3 decades, the perspective taken for this Vision Document was to provide a referral resource that will be able to communicate to various groups and levels of professionals – for our new recruits and young colleagues for knowing the system, and in support of the efforts our senior level professional colleagues are tirelessly working on bettering the system and its incumbents.

Through this document, an attempt has been made to present a brief glimpse into perspective that the NPPC has taken while delivering all and any of its plant protection activities, while the task of probing and understanding a system awaits further down the path of discovery. May the endeavors of all our professionals, both technical and non-technical, lead to greater progresses and successes along the path of development. Forever in gratitude, I would like to extend my sincere good wishes to everyone.

Thank you and Tashi Delek.
